INFORMATION FOR THE PRESS No 50/07

17 July 2007

DELIVERY OF JUDGMENT IN CASE T-201/04 SCHEDULED FOR 17TH SEPTEMBER 2007

Microsoft Corporation v Commission of the European Communities

Judgment in Case T-201/04 Microsoft Corporation v Commission of the European Communities will be delivered on 17 September 2007 at 9.30 a.m. in the Grande Salle of the Court of Justice.

Accreditation may be obtained from the Press and Information Service of the Court of Justice by returning the accompanying form no later than 12:00CET on 7 September 2007.

On 24 March 2004, the European Commission adopted a decision finding that Microsoft had infringed Article 82 of the EC Treaty by abusing its dominant position by engaging in two distinct types of conduct. It also imposed a fine of more than EUR 497 million.

The first type of conduct found to constitute an infringement consists in Microsoft's refusal to supply certain "interoperability information" to its competitors and to allow that information to be used in the development and distribution of products competing with its own products on the work group server operating systems market during the period from October 1998 until the date of adoption of the decision. By way of remedy, the Commission ordered Microsoft to disclose to any undertaking wishing to develop and distribute workgroup server operating systems the "specifications" for its client-to-server and server-to-server communications protocols.

The second type of conduct found by the Commission to constitute an infringement is the bundling of Windows Media Player with the Windows operating system. The Commission considered that that practice affected competition on the media players market. By way of remedy, the Commission ordered Microsoft to offer for sale a version of Windows without Windows Media Player.

On 7 June 2004, Microsoft brought an action before the Court of First Instance seeking annulment of that decision or a substantial reduction in the fine imposed on it.

The hearing in this case took place between 24 and 28 April 2006.
